DAILY SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

From the New York World.

STANTON—THE PRESIDENT—THE REPUBLICANS.

The telling message of President Johnson on Stanton's case—the most scathing of his many able messages, and needing only a more weighty occasion and subject to make it a state paper of the first order of merit—should have an effect on poor Stanton like the scratch behind the screen in the apartment of Joseph Surface, in the "School for Scandal." If the man's nature has any lingering remnant of the sensibilities of a gentleman, he will hide his face in confusion and wish to slink away from human observation. We print the message in another place. Despite the sober and seasoned gravity of its manner, it is as good as comedy. Its effect on Stanton and his zealous Republican lauditors, must be like that produced on Falstaff by the exposure of his prodigious heroism against the buck in buckram.

It is conceivable enough that a man may differ vehemently with the President, even on points where the President is strong and right, without having any cause to blush for his personal probity or sense of character. A man's honest prejudices, be they ever so violent, do not dishonor and degrade him. But when a man passes himself off for a martyr and is presently unmasked as a hypocrite, he is beyond the pale of charity. If Mr. Seward should turn upon the President and raise a quarrel on the ground that Mr. Johnson had consented to squander the public revenue in the Russian purchase, or if Mr. McCulloch should try to fasten on him a quarrel because he favors a contraction of the currency, or Mr. Stanbery because he vetoed the R. construction bill, every honest man would declare without hesitation that these members of the Cabinet were disgraced. But if these scarcely supposable hypotheses were facts, they would fade away before such infamy as Stanton's. This perfidious miscreant had the indescribable impudence to tell the President that he was unfit to be trusted with the appointment of an ad interim Secretary of War, when he himself had been not merely an approver, but the author, of the policy for which the President was condemned! The reconstruction policy of Mr. Johnson, which is "the head and front of his offending," was devised and put in writing by Stanton himself, before Mr. Johnson became President. It had the previous approval of President Lincoln, and was accepted by Mr. Johnson when he came into office. These facts and documentary evidence to prove them are given by Mr. Johnson in the message, and the well-driven nail is clinched by the sworn testimony of Stanton himself. The North Carolina proclamation, in which President Johnson's reconstruction policy was first announced, was a concoction of Stanton's brain, and, in all its essential features, the production of his pen!

This brazen knave and hypocrite outdid even himself in publicly contesting the President's authority to suspend him. He rested his remonstrance on the "Constitution" and the "laws," but was prudently tender of going into particulars. The word "Constitution" in such a connection should have burnt his pen like vitriol and reddened the very paper with shame. He, as having been a former Attorney-General, was consulted by the President respecting the constitutionality of the Tenure-of-Office bill, and held it to be in plain conflict with the Constitution. He supplied orally all the best points in the veto of that bill, and would have written the veto message had it not been for a transient physical infirmity. And yet he had the amazing effrontery to plead the Constitution against the act of the President. A man capable of this is capable of any meanness, and he probably was in collusion with Congress at the very time he was supplying the President with arguments against their action. The bill was probably amended so as to include Cabinet officers at his instigation, and his arguments against its constitutionality were a device for warding off suspicion. This snake in the grass was the only member of the Cabinet for whom the Republicans had any tenderness, or whom they had any motive to keep in office.

The skulking baseness, the personal and official treachery of this perfidious caitiff in connection with the New Orleans riot, would alone be sufficient to blast his reputation as a man of honor. In the very crisis of the danger, before the riot occurred, a despatch came to Washington from General Baird asking instructions. This despatch was concealed by Stanton, and kept from the knowledge of the President for many days after the riot. Had the President received it in time, the riot would have been prevented. That scene of bloody violence was precisely what the Republicans needed to enable them to carry the elections against the President. It spread a sentiment of horror and vengeance through the North which gave the Republicans the elections. It thereby emboldened Congress to adopt all the violent measures which, as the public mind sobers, are producing so mighty a reaction. As a point of official duty, quite apart from its noxious consequences, there could be no excuse for withholding that dispatch from the President. But when the mischief was done, and the country blazing from end to end with wild indignation against Mr. Johnson, then it was that this wretch, Stanton, stepped his soul in the most villianous perfidy. By giving publicity to the facts, this undutiful Secretary, this spotted and skulking adder, could have turned back the tide of slanderous obloquy which was surging over his official chief. It is no more than any honorable man would have done, even if he had no party affiliation or personal relations with the President. But Stanton lay like a coiled reptile among the papers of the War Department, stealthily watching the swelling caused by his fangs. The serpent, having bitten in secret, slunk into his den. He had poisoned the public mind against Mr. Johnson, and if he also supplied the antidote he would cancel his merit with the President's enemies, and lessen their chances of triumph.

Justice marches with a slow step, but sooner or later she overtakes all who merit her scourge. The reputation of Stanton is smitten with a loathsome leprosy from which no healing waters can cleanse it. The Republicans so hotly espoused his quarrel; they were so much indebted to his treachery; his snaky folds are so wound into and interlaced with their favorite measures, that they cannot instantly fling him off; but no honest Republican can fail to regard him as a disgraced man. He is a slimy load for the party to carry, and yet they will perhaps feel that in the very first contest that has arisen under the Tenure of Office bill, they cannot bear the humiliation of succumbing to the President. It is not merely the personal character of Stanton that is in question; their Tenure of Office bill is in question; their Reconstruction scheme is in question; the merits of their quarrel with the President are involved; the party capital they made of the New Orleans riot returns to plague them. They may, therefore, caress the loathed reptile for a while, lest by too suddenly pulling him away the limbs of their own favorite children should be torn off in his tightened coils. He may perhaps give another hiss, before he glides away fangless into befriending obscurity.

Cars are run through without breaking bulk between Petersburg and Raleigh, Charlotte, Goldsboro', Wilmington, &c., &c. This Inland Line possesses many advantages over a Sea Route. Marine risk is small and insurance is comparatively nothing. The Wharf of the Powhatan Steamers being situated in the very centre of the great shipping district of Baltimore, renders it convenient to shippers, and drayage is very small.

Great attention paid to consignments of Cotton, Corn, Wheat, Rosin, &c. &c. All produce forwarded at the lowest possible rates.

THE ALABAMA CONVENTION AND DISFRANCHISEMENT.

The Radical apologists for the Late miscegenation and mongrel concern, known as the "Alabama Convention," have the hardihood to point to its doings as an evidence of the liberality of "the party," inasmuch as it, even it, refused to extend and enlarge the disfranchisements of Congress. In so many explicit words, perhaps, it did not; but the effect and intention of its legislation is to disfranchise at least fifteen-twentieths of the white citizens of the State.—To prove this, we subjoin the oath which the Convention prescribed as necessary to be taken before any person can register for voting in any future elections:

"I, ——, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support and maintain the Constitution and laws of the United States, and the Constitution and laws of the State of Alabama; that I am not excluded from registering by any of the clauses in section 8, article 7, of the Constitution of the State of Alabama; that I will never countenance or aid in the secession of this State from the United States; that I accept the civil and political equality of all men, and agree not to attempt to deprive any person or persons, on account of race, color, or previous condition, of any political or civil right, privilege or immunity, enjoyed by any other class of men; and, furthermore, that I will not in any way injure, or countenance in others any attempt to injure, any person or persons, on account of past or present support of the government of the United States, the laws of the United States, or the principle of the political and civil equality of all men, or for affiliation with any political party."

No white man who has any respect for himself, any love of country, any affection for his race, any attachment to constitutional liberty, will take that shameful obligation. Hence, he is as effectually proscribed, as if he had been specifically disfranchised by name.

The Convention, in requiring such an oath, have violated and transcended the Reconstruction Acts themselves,—a fact which might warrant the probability of the rejection of the Constitution, by Congress itself, if that body could be supposed to have any regard for its own stipulations.—Those acts provided that, by the Constitutions to be framed in the so-called "rebel States," the elective franchise shall be secured to and enjoyed by all who are permitted to register and vote under them.—The Alabama Constitution limits the franchise to such as are willing to accept the theory of the majority in the Convention, that suffrage is a natural right, and to seal their faith by an oath.

The most odious, tyrannical and contemptible feature of the oath is that which requires a man—a freeman,—to swear never to alter his political conduct, even if his political views should undergo a change.—In one word, it makes a man swear that he will always advocate and support the Radical party, in that its essential, vital and characteristic principle,—negro suffrage.—But the protest filed by the moderate Republicans of the Convention against the Constitution, in their address to the people of Alabama, is more expressive on this point and on kindred subjects than anything we can say. They remark:

"The Constitution provides a mode for its amendment, but each elector must swear that he will never seek to exercise that Constitutional right in a certain direction! The evils of universal suffrage may become intolerable, but he must swear that he will endure them, without even a peaceful and Constitutional effort at amelioration. The Constitutional amendment appears to have received the indorsement of the popular voice of the Northern States, but the reconstruction acts, in so far as they go beyond the demands of the Constitutional amendment, were not submitted to the people before their enactment, and have not been directly acted on by them since. But a more generous and liberal sentiment has been evinced by the people of the North in the recent elections. They indicate clearly, that they are resolved that the power of their government shall not be directed to the abasement and degradition of the white population of the Southern land, and that they will not sentence a chivalric and generous people to be the servants of their former slaves, even as a punishment for rebellion. They have been aroused to the conviction that their own progress will be defeated, and civil liberty for themselves will be endangered, by the continued exercise of a proconsular rule, maintained by force, over an impoverished and ruined people. The proud conquerors are unwilling, after so mighty a contest, to surrender that Union, the love of which nerved every arm and inspired every heart in the darkest hours of their struggle. The Southern people admit the thoroughness of the conquest—they trust in the magnanimity of that terrible power which has overcome their heroic resistance, and they appeal to that Tribunal which is the Court of the last resort in all republics—the People. It can neither be corrupted or intimidated; from its approval, all laws in this Republic derive their force, and against its veto no congressional majority can prevail—to that great and magnanimous people of the North, the South in this last hour of need appeals. But the chief reason which leads us to conclude, that no hope of good government for our State, under the Constitution framed by the Convention, can be indulged in, is, that a close observation of the course of the Convention has demonstrated to us, that, under the proposed system of universal suffrage, the political power of the blacks is coveted by a set of political adventurers, having no interest in common with our people, as a weapon of offence, to be wielded by them, to accomplish their own selfish schemes of personal aggrandizement, and that this will readily surrender itself to the arts and intrigues of such designing knaves as will flatter their vanity, and encourages them in a jealous hate of the white inhabitants of the State. The drilled phalanx of colored delegates in the Convention, (with one honorable exception,) moving as subserviently as the beck of their managers, as ever slaves did at the command of a master, renders argument upon this point unnecessary.

The subserviance of a government formed on this Constitution to the more ignorant class, may well be argued, from the subserviance displayed towards them by the Convention. A delegate claiming to be the peculiar champion of the negro race, and to have labored and suffered much for them, introduced a section to be incorporated in the Bill of Rights, following the declaration of the civil equality of all men, and intended as explanatory of that declaration which provided "that common carriers should make no distinction between citizens of the State," and, on inquiry, we are informed that it was designed to secure to colored people the right to eat at the same table with the whites on steamboats, to sleep in the same berths, and be seated by them in the same cars. When this measure aroused a considerable opposition, and seemed likely to produce serious discord in the Convention, its authors and supporters, the peculiar friends of the colored people, withdrew it, but, before being permitted to do so, were obliged to promise them, that the Legislature should and would carry it into effect.

Again, the common school system, reported by the committee, provided for the establishment of "one or more schools in each school district." When it was objected that if only one school should be established in a district, white and colored children must attend the same school, it was answered by one member, "that as whites and blacks sit together in the Convention, he saw no reason why white children and colored children should not sit together on the same terms in the schools; that these prejudices would soon pass away, and the white people would speedily learn to accomodate themselves to the new order of things." An amendment providing for the establishment of separate schools for white and colored children was rejected by the Convention, and the system as reported by the committee was adopted. A measure was introduced by Mr. Wilhite, of Winston County, declaring against the policy of amalgamation, which he asked might be incorporated in the Constitution. This was referred to Committee of the Judiciary, which reported unanimously in favor of the measure, and submitted an article for adoption into the Constitution prohibiting marriage between whites and negroes. Out of excessive deference to the sensibilities of the colored delegates, the Convention laid this article on the table, and many members of the Committee, who had concurred in the report of the Committee, receding from their position, voted to lay it on the table.

It must be apparent to every one who witnessed the proceedings of the Convention, or who will take the trouble to read them, that those who claim the peculiar championship of the negro cause are determined to make a merit with them of trampling upon the pride of the race of the old inhabitants of the State, and treating it as a prejudice not even to be tolerated, but which it is their mission to eradicate. We regard it as certain, that the effect of the workings of a government framed on the provisions of this Constitution, and conducted by those into whose hands it will fall, will be to cause the abasement and degradation of the people of this State, and finally to beget a mongrel race, as little capable of progress or improvement as the unhappy population of the West India Isles.

Entertaining these views, we feel that we owe it as a duty to the people of the State to give this public expression to them, and to warn them against lending themselves to the ratification of the Constitution, when submitted to them. We know not what fate may be in store for us, but it can scarcely be worse than that which we shall bring on ourselves by aiding in carrying this Constitution into effect."

RADICAL RECONSTRUCTION.

The execution of the Reconstruction Acts of Congress, by the District Commanders, has been far more Radical and offensive to the South than the Acts themselves. The public mind of the North, though it has been strongly impressed with the odious character of Congressional Reconstruction, seems not to have been fully alive to the extreme measures of the several District Commanders in enforcing it.

The military Acts themselves only demanded universal negro suffrage and the ultimate adoption by the Southern legislatures of the Howard amendment. But where has been the shadow of law, authorizing the District Commanders to change entirely the character of Southern juries, to allow negroes to be candidates for and to sit in the State Conventions, or to force public carriers to give to negroes first class seats? Is it not a straining of the Civil Rights bill to confer upon the blacks these higher franchises and these claims of equality, which are by no means necessary to the maintenance of their civil rights? How is this law construed in the Northern Courts? Does it subject the whites to the risks and hazards of their rights, which are imposed on the Southern people? We think not.

Gen. Hancock seems to have been the only District Commander, who estimates his powers under the Military Acts properly, or who seems to think that the laws themselves, under which they are acting, limit their powers at all. Gens. Sheridan, Sickles, and others, may have acted in accordance with their best judgment, and they may really persuade themselves that they have not gone beyond the intent and meaning of the law, and, because the people submitted quietly to their constructions of the law, therefore, they were approved, but it would seem, if the law is consulted at all, all must see that it does not authorise the construction which the Commanders have put upon it.

If we mistake not, Gen. Sickles did not pretend that the law authorized his construction, but, believing himself endowed with plenary powers under it, he took the ground, assuming it as certain that the Radical policy must finally prevail, that it was best to educate the whites, in advance, in the discipline to which they would be forced to submit, even before it became the law of the land!

WHERE'S SUMNER?—The Radicals have been making a great fuss over Gen. Sheridan wherever he has gone; but lately he has been guilty of a breach of one of the dogmas of the party, which must certainly impair his party standing. He has been guilty of making an invidious distinction on account of color. The Chicago Tribune says that Sheridan kissed five hundred girls the other day in the public schools of that city. The next day he was invited to visit the colored schools, but he declined to kiss the negro girls, thereby making an invidious distinction on account of color. Sheridan is no longer available; in fact, he has denied the faith and deserted the party.—Let Sumner roar in the Senate, introduce a resolution and make a fuss.—St. Louis Republican.

THE RADICAL NOMINEE.

A prominent part of the action of the "National Council of the Union League Association," lately in session at Washington, was the adoption of a resolution urging the National Republican Convention not to nominate for the Presidency any man "who is not in himself an irreversible guarantee that he is the true friend of the cause of union, liberty, and equal rights before the law, and universal manhood suffrage."

"Universal manhood suffrage!" Under it, the Union League Association and the Republican party intend that all negroes shall vote, and only such whites, so far as part of the States are concerned, as are Radicals. The advocates of "universal manhood suffrage," paradoxical as it may appear, are, almost without exception, for the disfranchisement of a portion, at least, of those whom they call rebels,—in other words, it is a very partial suffrage indeed.

Who the candidate will be, that is to "constitute," in himself, an "irreversible guarantee," that he will sustain all the odious and unconstitutional heresies of the Radical party, it is impossible to predict with any certainty, though Chase's chances seem just now the best. He comes as near furnishing the very unenviable "irreversible guarantee" required as any one we can think of, and he possesses the confidence of the Radical leaders more fully than any one else whose name is mentioned in connection with the Presidential nomination. Notwithstanding Forney's assurances, Grant will certainly be ruled out, unless he says and does a great many things to satisfy the Radicals between now and the time for the assembling of the Convention. His claims would never have been thought of but for his military popularity; and it is not impossible that that consideration may have the effect of securing for him the nomination, provided he furnishes the proper "guarantee."

Whoever the "guarantee" may be, as the New York Herald observed, some days since, if he "accepts a nomination upon the African supremacy platform of the present Congress, the people (of the North) will unite upon the Democratic and Conservative nominee for the Presidency and elect him by a large majority."

From the Hillsboro Recorder.

THE NORTH CAROLINA RAILROAD.

HILLSBORO, Dec. 1st, 1867.

MR. EDITOR: As you were not among the Editors who lately waged such fierce war upon the President of the N. C. R. R., nor even, in the language of the iron clad, gave "aid, countenance or encouragement," by copying in your paper the assaults of others, I desire the use of your columns, not to defend from old nor to provoke to renewed assaults, but to call the attention of the public to the new tariff and new policy lately inaugurated. It will answer no good purpose at this late date to pick up one or any of the gloves thrown by your brethren with such defiance at my feet. It is good generalship to avoid a fight with women or editors, for they are sure to have the last word. When I came to my present business and place I was ready to sign a treaty of amity and friendship with most of the editors and a treaty of silence with all. My first purpose was to make a speedy and essential change in the designs and operations of the Road, and if I could work out a dividend for stockholders, and at the same time some good to the mining, mineral, manufacturing and agricultural interest of the State, a great purpose would be accomplished.

Our road has more than once been run in debt in order to catch the through travel, which we never did and I fear never will command. The little we do command pays us two cents and a mill a mile. When we were running for it the monthly receipt from through travel was a little less than $400 per month. The expense of running the train for it was $1500 a month.

The Superintendent thought it best to quit the chase for through travel, diminish the speed, and attach freight cars to our through travel train.

This experiment of freight cars attached to the through travel train brought into the Treasury $8,000 per month for freight alone, to say nothing of the travel. We may, in fact we did, lose a portion of our through travel, but we could afford to do it on such terms.

Last year we ran at lightning speed for through travel, and we ran $92,000 more out of the Treasury than we were able to run into it.

The effort and policy of the road has ever been to make the travel and not the freight pay. The policy has been against the labor and industry of the State. I might add, such has been the policy of most Southern roads. A few illustrations will better explain what I mean than pages of reason or argument.

A barrel of flour could be sent from Boston or New York over our road to Charlotte, cheaper than you could send the same barrel from Charlotte to Goldsboro; and so with almost any article you could name. Every facility was given to our people to buy cheap from others; but no encouragement given them to sell. In fact, difficulties in the way of high tariffs forbid their selling in foreign markets at all.

A gentleman in Raleigh bought a barrel of potatoes in Morganton. He afterwards learned that he could buy potatoes in Raleigh from New York or Boston, at what the freight from Morganton had cost him. As Mr. Rufus Tucker is a director on the road, I know he will pardon me if I tell of a practical joke played on him last summer. He bought wheat bran in Charlotte at sixty cents a bushel, and paid 30 cents a bushel to get it to Raleigh—ninety cents for wheat bran—which he could buy for forty at home. Lest this statement should injure my friend Tucker as a business man and financier, I must state he did not know the price of the bran or the freight until it was delivered.

People do not grow rich by what they buy, but by what they sell. You may buy as cheap from the North as you please, but you will soon buy yourselves poor if you do not sell them something in return.

Under our new tariff we take butter and lard from Charlotte to Goldsboro, at one cent a pound—distance 223 miles. Chickens and ducks half a cent each; six cents for a turkey; bacon, beef and pork four fifths of a cent per pound; apples and potatoes fifteen cents a bushel; hay thirty cents per hundred.

While I write, some enterprising man is passing with 1000 chickens for the Baltimore market. They cackle and crow, as if they were glad to die for forty and fifty cents apiece instead of ten and twelve and a half each.

I have written to Charleston, Wilmington and Newbern, to learn what amount of hay is brought into each of these ports annually from New England; it is immense. With three cents tax on cotton, forty cents on tobacco, and two dollars on whiskey, our people should turn their attention to clover and hay. There is now more money in it than in the great Southern staples, cotton and tobacco.

The sea shore counties of North and South Carolina furnish a market for New England hay at a dollar and fifty cents per hundred. I say, quit your cotton and tobacco, and cultivate grass for hay. The wet seasons for three years past have been most propitious to the growth of this great untaxed New England staple.

One advantage, too, it has over all other products. It can't be taxed. Hay, being the spontaneous production of the earth and little or no ploughing or hoeing being necessary to produce it, could bear a tax better than cotton or tobacco. If I could do so without being called disloyal, I would suggest to Congress a modification of the tax on cotton and tobacco, and a partial tax on hay in place of partial confiscation.

Congress has not set its face more strongly against Southern Agriculture than have the Southern Railroads by their false policy of high tariffs on the outgoing products of the soil. I hope both will learn, before it is too late, that there is much truth in the saying of the great English farmer, statesman and philosopher: "That for government to experiment on the farmer is a most perilous thing, for his is a very poor trade, subject to great risks and losses; it is the most precarious in its advantages, the most liable to losses, and the least profitable of any that is carried on. It requires ten times more of labor, of vigilance, of attention, of skill, and, let me add, of good fortune also, to carry on the business of a farmer with success, than what belongs to any other trade."

I know this is not the light in which we have hitherto looked at the business of farming. That we did not so see it was owing to our old system of labor.

Now a word to stockholders, and I will be silent until I learn the price and quantity of hay brought in at Charleston, Wilmington and Newbern. Then, in another communication, I will be better able to show to our people the advantage of cultivating clover and hay, instead of cotton and tobacco.

Our receipts for the months of August, Sept. and October, amounted to $152,078.21 Our expenses for operating the road $101,870 21, leaving a net profit of $50, 208, which the Treasurer has applied to the extinguishment of our debts. The receipts for the three months are $18,223 58 more than the same three months of last year; while the expenses of the three months (operating expenses) were $40,773 83 less than last year. We compare with last year, because it is usual, and because that administration was infinitely better than the one that preceded it, and compares favorably with any that has preceded it.

If any apology is deemed necessary for this communication, it will be found in the assaults made upon the present administration, and the additional facts that some of the large stockholders are alarmed, and have written me that they see "nothing but ruin in the present policy of the road." We think their fears are ill founded, especially when they call to mind the fact that what we have accomplished was done under a tariff from ten to two hundred per cent. lower than former tariffs.

JOSIAH TURNER, Jr.,
President N. C. R. R. Co.

PUBLIC MEETING IN HERTFORD.

At a public meeting of the citizens of Hertford county, held in Winton on the 11th. inst., for the purpose of considering the agricultural interests of the country, Zephaniah Askew, Esq., was called to the chair and Dr. James E. Newsome was appointed Secretary.

On motion, the Chairman appointed the following named gentlemen to draft resolutions expressive of the sentiments of the meeting: W. W. Mitchell, Abram Thomas, James A. Riddick, John B. Godwin and Samuel D. Winborne.

On report of the Committee, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS: Large bodies of arable land in our county are uncultivated for want of steady and reliable farm hands, and the crops made on our farms are unremunerative, by reason of depressed prices and irregular labor, and it is essential to returning prosperity, that a much larger supply of labor be introduced than can now be controlled, and we must look mainly to emigration from abroad:

Resolved, That it is our earnest desire to see directed to our section a tide of emigration of industrious laboring men, and that we extend to such a warm welcome, assuring them of our determination to give them steady and remunerative employment in all the departments of industrial labor.

Resolved, That efforts should be made by disseminating knowledge of our situation, soil, and climate, and other advantages for successful farming, to direct the attention of foreign emigrants coming to our shores of good industrious habits, and induce them to settle among us.

Resolved, further, that agencies to this effect should be established in our larger cities, and that combined efforts on the part of the people of the State should be put forth to secure this result, and we heartily invite the people of other counties to co operation, and will meet them in Convention, or otherwise, to consult and devise such measures as shall promise to relieve us of present embarrassments, and restore its wonted prosperity to our languishing agricultural interest.

During the course of the meeting Hon. W. N. H. Smith made a few brief, though decidedly instructive, remarks.

Several of the leading farmers of the county added interest to the meeting by giving their views on the present mode of farming.

On motion, it was moved and agreed, that the proceedings of this meeting be published in the Raleigh Sentinel, with a request that other papers of the State copy the same.

ZEPHANIAH ASKEW, Chairman.
J. E. NEWSOME, Secretary.

ARREST OF EDITORS.—A dispatch to the Louisville Courier, dated Memphis, the 10th instant says:

"Messrs. Galloway, Rhea and Clusky, editors of the Avalanche, were arrested to-day by order of Judge Hunter, and put in prison for criticising his judicial corruption. The Judge had been liberating negroes on straw bail in order to secure votes. They will have a hearing to-morrow at 10 A. M."

Dispatches from Washington to Radical papers say that the friends of Mr. Chase are becoming dispirited at their prospects, and will now go immediately to work to get up delegations from the Southern States, and have them at Chicago, whether those States are reconstructed or not.

"Since her arrival in America, no lecturer has drawn so large houses as this young lady, yet under twenty years of age. During the first six months, scarcely a hall was sufficiently large to hold her audiences."—Cincinnati Gazette.

NEW YORK TIMES: Well worth the evening to the young as a matter of amusement, but doubly so for good advice and information.

"The crowd last evening at Rand's Hall was immense. So large a concourse of people, mostly ladies, never before filled that hall, and hundreds went home unable to gain admission. Miss St. Clair is not only eloquent, but as a speaker fascinating, and her subjects are such as to win golden opinions. It speaks volumes for the culture of the masses, when they listen for nearly two hours to lessons so instructive. Would that every young lady in the country could hear the Lecture of last evening."—Troy Press.

"Miss St. Clair's popularity seems to increase in this city with every visit. Her success last evening was a perfect ovation."—Chicago Trib.

The Piles Can be Cured.

MY FELLOW CITIZENS:—By the first of February, I will have in readiness a preparation that will CURE THE PILES FOR ALL TIME TO COME. Up to this time this most painful of all diseases has baffled the skill of the ablest Physicians in the world. I am by no means a professional gentleman—rather a half-handed farmer, and a great lover of fish-hooks, dogs and guns—yet if my remedy will not give relief in three and cure in fourteen days, I am unwilling to retain a copper of the people's money for my trouble. I think I shall, in a short time, be able to show certificates from the ablest men in North Carolina, that my Ointment is an infallible cure for Piles; for my remedy, like charity, shall begin at home, in my native County, Anson; and if deserving merit, let it spread, otherwise let her slide." After this you will hear from me all along. # THE SENTINEL.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1867.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—Capt. A. W. Lawrence, of this city, is announced as General Agent, for the State of North Carolina, of the Brooklyn Life Insurance Company. This is pronounced to be one of the most reliable corporations of the kind in the country, and Capt. Lawrence, as Agent, will faithfully present its claims to the public. For an abstract of the advantages of the institution, the reader is referred to the advertisement.

The celebrated Mikado Troupe of Japanese will give a series of their attractive exhibitions at Tucker Hall, commencing on the 27th. (Friday.) See announcement.

S. D. Wait, General Agent of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, gives, under the head of "Special Notices," a most flattering exhibit of the advantages and attractions of that great corporation.—The reader is referred to it for full and explicit information.

The Spring session of the "Ruffin Select School," Caswell county, (James S. Dameron, Principal,) will commence on Monday, Jan. 13th. See advertisement.

The Piles can be cured: W. M. Pickett, Wadesboro, N. C.

MAYOR'S COURT.—William Feribee, colored, was returned to the Superior Court, charged with stealing a horse from Jacob Grimes, of Davidson county, N. C., and a saddle from Peter Grimes, of the same county.

COUNCIL OF STATE.—A quorum of this body were in attendance at the Executive Office, in this City, on Saturday. The Governor nominated to the Council, for Judge of the Superior Court, to supply the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Judge Fowle, Jno. F. Poindexter, Esq., of Stokes; which nomination was confirmed.

Mr. Poindexter can take the test oath, and possesses the learning and qualifications necessary to make a competent and upright Judge. In view of all the circumstances, no better selection could have been made.

THE MIKADO JAPANESE TROUPE.—This Company will give a series of their unique exhibitions in this city, commencing on Friday evening next. We know nothing of their performances beyond what we see in our Southern exchanges, where they are spoken of as novel and surprising. The Savannah and Charleston papers, especially, represent their feats as being of a remarkable character.

LECTURE TO NIGHT.—Attention is directed to the announcement of Miss St. Clair's lecture to-night. The subject is an interesting one, and the advertisement details some flattering commendations by the press.

CHRISTMAS COMING.—The appearance of the variety stores, confectioneries, jewelry and fancy goods establishments indicates that Christmas is upon us, and that our enterprising tradesmen are fully prepared to accommodate young and old folks in all their wishes. The advertising columns of the Sentinel afford the best means of ascertaining where the nicest things and the best bargains are to be had.

ENGLISH CAPITALISTS.—L. P. Olds, Esq., of our city, now on a visit North, designs, as a part of his business, to confer with the English agent, Mr. Everett, to see if anything can be done for the improvement of the condition of our State, by securing capital for our land owners, now so much in want of such stimulus to agricultural enterprise. Mr. Olds' full comprehension of this subject will enable him to put forward our claims and resources to the best advantage.

MR. TURNER'S LETTER.—By some oversight, we did not see the letter of Hon. J. Turner, Jr., President of the N. C. Rail Road, until Friday last, in the Greensboro Patriot. We very cheerfully lay it before our readers, and we are glad it affords ample proof of the ability and economy with which the Road has been managed, since he took charge of it. It will serve to put to silence the fear of his friends and the taunts of his enemies, as to the capacity and ability of the present management.

His allusions to the press, however, are too general, and may mislead some as to their application. The articles of the Sentinel upon the management of our Railroads, some time since, were not written in the interest of any Road, much less in opposition to any Road or to any individual or individuals. Nor did the Sentinel approve or sympathize, in the least, with the personal flings or the unfounded insinuations of any of our cotemporaries at the management of any of the Roads. Our articles were directed purely by a desire to promote the interest of the public, as well as the welfare of all our Roads.

THE RALEIGH REGISTER.—It is well known to our readers that when the Register, the Republican paper in this city, began its publication, and assumed to be a continuation of the old Raleigh Register, the Junior Editor of the Sentinel, as one of the former Proprietors and Editors of the old Raleigh Register, demurred to the assumption, and politely suggested, that the proprietors of the present Register did injustice to him and to the memory of the dead, by endeavoring to identify the history and character of the two papers. The repetition of the offence, in their late prospectus, so far as the proprietors of the present Register are concerned, deserves severe animadversion. We, therefore, publish the following from the Wilson Carolinian, only to let our readers see what our cotemporaries think of such a course. The simple designation of the Register, by that name, is no ground of complaint, but to attempt to identify the old with the new Register is a wrong to the memory and to the friends of the old Raleigh Register. The Wilson Carolinian says:

"The following is about the coolest piece of impudence it has been ours to encounter:

"The Raleigh Register having been the leading paper at the Capital of the State for more than 60 years, the present proprietors will spare no pains or expense the coming year to make the Register a first class newspaper in every respect."

The above is an extract from the prospectus of the Raleigh Register for 1868, a Radical Republican paper lately begun in Raleigh, by H. H. Helper and Dr. A. B. Chapin, and of which Daniel R. Goodloe is editor.

The time was, within the memory of many of us, when there was a paper published in the city of Raleigh, called the Register, and which was a power in the land.

The Raleigh Register of by gone days commanded the respect of the people of North Carolina and of the whole country, for it combined wisdom, strength, talent and respectability.

The present bastard issue does neither.—Helper, Chapin and Goodloe are sailing under false colors, practising fraud and deception, legitimate work for the men and principles of the party they represent.

The old Raleigh Register was begun in our State Capital, in 1799, by Joseph Gales, father of Joseph Gales of the National Intelligencer. The Register was conducted successively by Weston R. Gales, Maj. Seaton Gales, and Col. Jno. W. Syme, in whose hands it deceased in 1862."

It is proper that we should state, in copying the foregoing, that our personal relations with Mr. Goodloe are of the kindest character, and that he had no agency in drafting the prospectus, as he has no connection with the practical management of the Register. While we differ with him in sentiment, we are sure that he is entirely honest in the advocacy of his opinions.

STATE NEWS.

——The Wilmington Journal of the 20th, notices the arrival in that city of "one of the last of Maximilian's army." It says:

"Many of our citizens were surprised yesterday morning by the apperance upon our streets of a person whose looks declared him to be a foreigner, in the uniform of a French officer, with several decorations upon his breast. On application at the office of the French Vice-Cousul, we learned that the name of this person is I. Kahneblum, a Captain in the French army, and who recently served under the Emperor Maximilian in Mexico. On being released from prison he was sent to New Orleans and from thence to Washington City, where it was expected he would be provided for at the office of the French Legation, and arrangements made to secure his passage to France. In the meantime other arrangements had been made, and Captain Kahneblum is now on his way to Mobile, where a ship is expected by which those in similar circumstances can be transported to their homes.

The career of this officer, as we have learned it, has been an eventful one. He is a Polander by birth, and served in the French army in the Crimea, and was at Sebastopol. He also served in the war with Austria, and was present at the terrible engagement at Solferino. His home is in the province of Alsace, France, but when the French troops were sent to Mexico he was enrolled among the number, and followed the fortunes of the Mexican Empire until its downfall. He left the city on the train going South yesterday."

——The Newbern Journal of Commerce chronicles another murder in that section of the State. It says, in its issue of the 20th:

'Night before last three negroes went to the residence of Mr Danl. Doughity, on the road leading from Neuse to Trent, and while two of them remained outside, one, named Ben. Carmer, went inside, and, finding no one there but Mr. P. Bratcher, demanded what money there was in the house, and immediately seized him. Mr. B. also seized the negro, when a violent struggle ensued.—The negro, managing to free himself, drew a pistol and firing twice at Bratcher wounded him mortally in the abdomen and right arm. A small boy living with Mr. Doughity, seeing the turn affairs were taking, reached quickly behind the door of the room, and seizing the gun belonging to Mr. Doughity, fired at the negro killing him instantly. The negroes outside ran, and up to this time have not been caught. It is perhaps proper to state here that Mr. Doughity was absent from his home at the time of the murder.

It is a significant fact that more murders and other crimes are committed in the vicinity of Newbern than in any other part of the State, that nearly all of them are committed by negroes, and that the Radical influence is stronger here than any where else in the State."

——The Ashville News publishes another card from three white citizens of Buncombe, announcing their withdrawal from the Union League. They say:

"We wish you to publish this card that all may know we are no more of the Red Strings—our throats are not large enough to swallow the Nigger, and, with him sticking in our throats, sing "Rally round the flag, boys." We are for the Constitution, the Union, and the flag of our Fathers."

——A serious, if not fatal, affray, occurred in Ashville, a few days since, between a white man and a negro, named West, in which the latter was stabbed in the stomach. Drs. Hardy and Summey were promptly on the spot, but is hardly possible that he can live. The white man immediately made his escape.

Monday Morning Dispatches.

THE INSURRECTION IN ALABAMA.

MONTGOMERY, Dec. 21, P. M.

The Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer says that the trial of the negro conspirator and revolutionist, Geo. Shorter, at Union Springs, Ala., resulted in his conviction, and sentence to jail for six months. On the trial, the material facts heretofore published about his organization of a negro government in Bullock county were produced.

The report that he claims to have been sent to do this work by the radicals in the North Western States is confirmed.

But for the timely discovery of this secret organization, and the active, and energetic measures adopted to break it up, it would doubtless have been extended among the ignorant blacks, and caused a great deal of mischief.

It was reported, early yesterday morning, that Shorter had broken out of jail the night before, and escaped. Whether he effected his escape unaided, or was assisted by the negroes belonging to his so-called government, we could not learn.

The negroes, generally, as heretofore stated were much incensed against him.

CIVIL RIGHTS BILL.

MOBILE Dec. 21, P. M.

Maj. Horton was sentenced by Judge Busteed, to-day, for violation of the civil rights bill, in two cases, to a fine of $250. He paid the fine and was discharged.

GEORGIA CONVENTION.

ATLANTA, Dec. 21, P. M.

The Convention met this morning and immediately adjourned over to Monday.

It is rumored on the streets, that the committee of one sent to Milledgeville to draw money to pay the Convention, has telegraphed here that there are no funds there.

GREAT SUFFERING.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 P. M.

Intelligence from Tortola represents the people are suffering greater privations than those of St. Thomas. The dead lie unburied and a pestilence was threatened, which could only be avoided by burning the corpses.

The inhabitants are almost entirely without food. The Tortugas was washed away and not Tortola.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Insurance.

We have in our Office a Chart, giving the sworn statement of a number of Life Insurance Companies, made to the 'Insurance Department of the State of New York, for the year ending Dec 31st, 1866," in comparing which we see that the CONNECTICUT MUTUAL LIFE is larger and far exceeds the five other Companies represented in this State—as follows: The Ætna Life, Brooklyn Equitable, Manhattan and North America. Their total Assets, combined, are $12 886,867.14; Connecticut Mutual Assets $13,316,275,97, larger by $429,408 83. Their dividends, paid to policy holders, 221,942,99; Connecticut Mutual dividends to policy holders, $331,478 00—larger by $309,515-01. Their expenses and taxes, in 1866, $1,372,-169.55; Connecticut Mutual's $723,230,40—less by $648,939,13. Their ratio of expenses to premium and interest 20,13; Connecticut Mutual's 11,.11—less by 49,02.

One can see, at a glance, how much more it costs, in proportion, to work a small Company than a large one. Their dividends paid to Stockholders $78 762. The Connecticut Mutual's only Stockholders are its 57,000 Policy holders, and they now hold (Dec. 1867) $17,000,000 A large amount of this money is invested in real estate and State bonds, so there is NO SAFER, NOR CHEAPER investment for a man to make for his family. It has become such a prosperous institution that its interest alone more than pays losses—notwithstanding the large dividends it annually returns to its Policy holders.

Another grand feature: All its policies are non-forfeitable for a stated amount; the continued Life after two payments; the ten year Life and Endowment after two payments.

We have branch offices in ten of the principal Cities and Towns in this State, where facts and statements can be had, and applications taken—The Company "employs no travelling or itinerant Agents." "The Company requires that their Agents shall thoroughly identify themselves with its interest." S. D. WAIT, Gen. Agt.

Life Insurance continues to occupy the most serious consideration of the heads of families, who, by the casualties of war, short crops and short price of Cotton, have been deprived of the support they relied upon, in case of death for their dependents; and the question with them is, "Which is the OLDEST, SAFEST, LARGEST, MOST ECONOMICAL and RELIABLE COMPANY represented in North Carolina?" I unhesitatingly assure them that I have indisputable evidence that the CONNECTICUT MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE Co. is, without doubt, prepared to prove, from the most trustworthy and authentic official reports, that she has a larger amount of assets than all other Companies in this State combined; that for eighteen years she has decared an average of fifty per cent dividend; for thirteen years her interest on investment has exceeded her losses; and her vast business is conducted at a much less expense.

All she makes is shared by the assured. No Stockholder receives the lion's share of the profits, and no Company pays its losses more promptly. Last year (1866) she paid to widows and orphans upwards of a Million of Dollars. Therefore, apply at once to P. F. PESCUD, Agt,

LIFE INSURANCE.

[From the Insurance Monitor and Wall street Review, New York.]

A Well-deserved Success—The Equitable Life Insurance Company.

The approaching demolition of seven buildings, consisting of that almost homemorial building "No One Cent," the less ancient "Standinger's," and the present office building of the American Express Company, on the northwest corner of Broadway and Cedar street, together with three adjoining buildings on the latter street, is attributable to that modern insurance giant, the Equitable Life. These seven buildings are all to be replaced by one, six stories in height, including basement, and having a frontage of 95 feet 9 inches on Broadway, and one hundred and thirty-seven feet four inches on Cedar street. A number of the first architects in the country are engaged in perfecting plans for the structure so as to make it in style, accommodation, and convenience, superior to any other building of the kind yet erected.

The building will, however, not only be made profitable to the Company, but so arranged that the rental of such part as is not occupied by us will return an interest on the investment. The magnitude and expensive growth of the Equitable Life not only justify this solid investment, but render it both expedient and necessary.

Although the Company has been only eight years in business, its policies issued during its eighth year covered an insurance amounting to over thirty-two millions of dollars. The latest sum assured by it up to the present date approaches 100 000,000; its annual income to three millions, and will in the ensuing year doubtless expand to five million dollars.

For this rapid increase and substantial success there are abundant and most satisfactory reasons. They are found in the numerous solid advantages the Company affords. In the fact that it is purely mutual, and that all its profits go to the insured on the first of February, every year, at which time a large dividend has been regularly paid, amounting last

AN INTERCEPTED EPISTLE.

[They will have their amusements, "whether or no," in our gay sister City of Charlotte. They were having some sort of a festival, lately, and a mock Post Office was, of course, one of the orders of the day,—or rather of the night. By some means or other—the usual irregularity of that Department probably—the following poetical epistle to Governor Vance was seen by other orbs than his, before he had the pleasure of reading his own letter.]

Zebulon, Zebulon, how can you be Learned and skilled, and an LL. D.,
Brimful of wisdom and legal lore
And yet dispense such a bootless store
Of humor and merriment, glee and mirth,
That not since old Momus went off from the earth,
Has any mortal appeared more fit
To wield his sceptre of genial wit?

Zebulon, Zebulon, yours is the part
To bo'd in your hands Carolina's heart;
Her sons in your service fight a Centaur,
Her daughters adore—hush! here's Mrs. Vance!
And old Virginia has joined the crowd
And proffers her paans long and loud,
To cover the crest of the cherished one,
Her grandson, of course, as her daughter's son.

Zebulon, Zebulon, rare I trow
In the troublous times about us now,
Rarer than rubies, a man to find
With spirit and senses, and soul and mind
All intent on one grand resolve,
The problem of duty to rightly solve
And be to himself and his country true—
Zebulon Vance, he's found in you!

Zebulon, Zebulon, not for a day,
Nor year, nor season, your kingdom's away!
The page of the future will proudly tell
The history of him, who so long and well,
Manfully battled with strength and might
For the ever-sacred cause of the right!
And the rose of love and the bays of fame
Shall garland with glory your honored name!

CHARITY.

Sweetly we live, my wife and I,
Sweetly, all the time,
As a May rose in her house of leaves,
Or a poet in his rhyme.

Oft in her pale and quiet cheeks,
A dash of red doth show
Her heart is fluttering like a wheel
In the wave of love below.

I call my good wife Charity,
And she blushes at the name,
Though she gave the light of her hair and eyes
To our baby, when it came.

Sweetly we live—her gentle brows
Know not the way to frown,
And I never see that her head is gray,

ALICE CARY.

THE OCEAN BOTTOM.

Mr. Green, the famous diver, tells singular stories of his adventures, when making search in the deep waters of the ocean. He gives some new sketches of what he saw at the "Silver Bank," near Hayti:

"The banks of coral on which my divings were made are about forty miles in length, and from ten to twenty in breadth. On this bank of coral is presented to the diver one of the most beautiful and sublime scenes the eye ever beheld. The water varies from ten to one hundred feet in depth, and so clear that the diver can see from two to three hundred feet when submerged, with but little obstruction to the sight.

The bottom of the ocean in many places is as smooth as a marble floor; in others it is studded with coral columns, from ten to one hundred feet in height, and from one to eighty feet in diameter. The tops of those more lofty support a myriad of pyramidal pendants, each forming a myriad more, giving reality to the imaginary abode of some water-nymph. In other places the pendants form arch after arch, and, as the diver stands on the bottom of the ocean, and gazes through in the deep winding avenues, he finds that they fill him with as sacred an awe as if he were in some old cathedral which had long been buried beneath old ocean's waves. Here and there the coral extends even to the surface of the water, as if the loftiest columns were towers belonging to those stately temples that are now in ruins.

There were countless varieties of trees, shrubs and plants in every crevice of the corals where water had deposited the earth. They were all of a faint hue, owing to the pale light they received, although of every shade, and entirely different from plants that I am familiar with that vegetate upon dry land. One in particular attracted my attention; it resembled a sea fan of immense size, of variegated colors and the most brilliant hue. The fish which inhabit the "Silver Banks" I found as different in kind as the scenery was varied. They were of all forms, colors and sizes—from the symmetrical goby to the globe-like sunfish; from the dullest hue to the changeable dolphin; from the spots of the leopard to the hues of the sunbeam; from the harmless minnow to the voracious shark.

Some had heads like squirrels, others like cats and dogs, some of small size resembled the bull terrier. Some darted through the water like meteors, while others could scarcely be seen to move.

To enumerate and explain all the various kinds of fish I beheld while diving on these banks would, were I enough of a naturalist so to do, require more than my limits allow, for I am convinced that most of the kinds of fish which inhabit the tropical seas can be found there. The sun fish, star fish, white shark and blue or shovel nose shark were often seen.

There were also fish which resembled plants, and remained as fixed in their position as a shrub; the only power they possessed was to open and shut when in danger. Some of them resembled the rose when in full bloom, and were of all hues. These were the ribbon fish, from four or five inches to three feet in length; their eyes are very large and protrude like those of a frog.

Another fish is spotted like a leopard, from three to ten feet in length. They build their houses like beavers, in which they spawn and the male or female watches the egg until it hatches. I saw many specimens of the green turtle, some five feet long, which I should think would weigh from 400 to 500 pounds."

MUSICAL ACCENT.

At a trial in the Court of King's Bench, between certain publishing Tweedledums and Tweedledees, as to an alleged piracy of an arrangement of "The Old English Gentleman," T. Cook was subpœnaed as a witness. On cross examination by Sir James Scarlett, that learned counsel flippantly said: "Now, sir, you say the two melodies are the same, but different; what do you mean, sir?"—Tom promptly answered: "I said the notes in the two copies were alike, but with a different accent?" Sir James.—"What is a musical accent?" Cook.—"My terms are a guinea a lesson, sir." (A loud laugh.) Sir James (rather ruffled.)—"Don't mind your terms; I ask you what is a musical accent? Can you see it?" Cook.—"No." Sir James. "Can you feel it?" Cook.—"A musician can." (Great laughter.) Sir James (very angrily.)—"Now, pray, sir, don't beat about the bush; but tell his lordship and the jury, who are supposed to know nothing about it, the meaning of what you call accent."—Cook.—"Accent in music is a stress laid on any particular note, as you would lay a stress on any given word, for the purpose of being better understood. If I were to say you are an ass, it rests on ass; but were I to say you are an ass, it rests on you, Sir James." (Reiterated shouts of laughter.)
